His Dear Old Mother.

"My dear old mother, who is now 83 years old, thrives on Electric Bitters," writes W. B. Brunson, of Dublin, Ga. "She has taken them for about two years and enjoys an excellent appetite, feels strong and sleeps well." That's the way Electric Bitters affect the aged, and the same happy results follow in all cases of female weakness and general debility. Weak, puny children too, are greatly strengthened by them. Guaranteed also for stomach, liver and kidney troubles, by Charles Rogers, druggist, 50c.

Dr. King's New Life Pills regulate the liver, prevent appendicitis, and establish regular habits of the bowels. 25c at Charles Rogers' drug store.

WATERFRONT ITEMS

An attempt will be made to float the bark Galena, which is ashore at Ocean Beach as soon as the spring season opens. Her owners have decided that with the aid of hydraulics they will endeavor to get her off the sand.

The gasoline schooner Della arrived from Nestucca yesterday morning.

The steam schooner Wellesley with a cargo of lumber for San Pedro, went to sea yesterday.

The British ship Port Patrick went up stream yesterday. The story that the ship was in any danger while off the bar, is scoffed at by local mariners, who claim with Captain Sainty that had the vessel been in danger of going ashore he could have let go his anchors and have waited until being picked up by a tow-boat.

The Alliance is expected down the river today with passengers and freight for Coos Bay.

THE FINANCIAL STRAITS OF WALL STREET GAMBLERS CANNOT AFFECT OUR GREAT PACIFIC COAST.

For some time past railroad officials of high state, financiers and speculative merchants have been furnishing interviews to the public press predicting alarming calamities both financial and commercial.

Most of the blame for these predicted hard times is laid at the door of the western states. One eminent railroad president even goes so far as to state that the calamity has arrived and that the business of the northwest is one-half what it was a year ago.

Believing that the statement of the distinguished gentleman was rather unwarranted especially in our portion of the northwest, the Astorian made a point of interviewing many of our merchants with regard to whether their business had improved or decreased in the past year and in every expression of opinion was found an optimism that precludes any possibility of a panic, or even a temporary depression in our bulwark of prosperity.

In years gone by our development has had to depend solely on eastern capital and influence, but the time has now come when our local capitalists, believing with enthusiasm, in the great resources of our west, are planning and building, investing and re-investing their means in the development of our resources.

It makes no matter, therefore, as to whether the gamblers in the east are in distress or not, our prosperity cannot be curtailed; far from being on the verge of a panic, will march forward in the procession of prosperity.

Apropos of the recent financial flurry in Wall Street, Manager Wayne of the Chamber of Commerce, had to say:

"I do not believe there will ever be another financial panic in the United States, making the word panic mean today what it always has meant in the past.

"There has not been anything very closely resembling a panic in the United States since 1893, and at that time, and at all times previous, Wall Street controlled the financial condition and situation of the entire United States, inasmuch as a majority of all the circulating money of the United States was in the banks controlled by what has popularly come to be designated as 'Wall street.' At the present time and not more than one-tenth of the money circulating in the United States is controlled by these Wall Street banks. And the Wall Street people can if they wish, push to the wall banks controlling one-tenth of our nation's money, and yet there will not result anything even remotely resembling a panic. And of course no one believes that Wall Street will bust all of the banks, or even any considerable percentage of the banks, under its control, although the decline in all kinds of stock during the past nine months has approximated three thousand million dollars.

"But the decline in stocks, however severe, does not cause poor crops, does not take away one dollar's worth of freight from the railroads or steamship lines.

"While it is a fact that the amount of gold in circulation as money is now six times greater in a ratio to all other money, than it was in 1893, and therefore some have held that its purchasing power is less than it was then, and is the legitimate reason for the present slump in the price of all stock, yet such people are only superficial reasoners. Last year there was raised in the United States three times as much grain as in 1893, while the cotton crop was more than twice as great as it was in that year. Yet so fast has the population of the world increased, and therefore all consumptive processes, that the price of all products is now very nearly as high as they ever have been. Although in this connection it may be truthfully said that the introduction of flour in Japan and China must be taken into consideration when considering the present high price of wheat; while the introduction of American cotton goods in China, Corea and Manchuria, has very greatly accelerated the rise in the price of cotton. Cotton this season has all the time been hovering near the mark of 15 cents per pound, although the crop for the past three seasons has been close to 15,000,000 bales. In 1893 only about 8,000,000 bales of cotton were produced and the price for a long period ranged from 4 to 6 cents per pound.

"The country banks in all sections of the United States, in the cotton belt, in the wheat and corn states, in the northwest, and in California, are filled with money. All of this money is far from the itching fingers of the Wall Street
